

Memo from
JOSHUA LEDERBERG

To:
Nossal

NOV 22 1971

Merril etc

No obvious faults, nor easy answers to the questions you raise. Wait to see confirmations! (But I don't think we'll jump into it here).

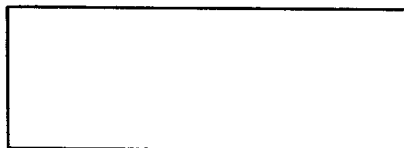

It would be very wonderful to revisit Australia after 14 years; but the occasional opportunities simply have not coincided with my own possibilities. However, I do not abandon hope.

I hear nothing ~~but~~ good news of you and the Hall; and am delighted to hear of your bucolic relief.

All the best

P.S. What;s gotten into Sir Mac -- re his admonitions on microbial genetics. The same argument could apply to any research on pathogens, and inevitably would be if his appeal were heeded.

PROFESSOR JOSHUA LEDERBERG
Department of Genetics
School of Medicine
Stanford University
Stanford, California 94305